

We are not alone: The presence of light beings

posted July 14, 2013

As sons and daughters of God, we are graced by our Creator's love and radiance, and embraced and nurtured by the universe. Everything we need is for the asking. We have not known this and so have thought ourselves to be little, lacking and alone.

The truth is that we are not only loved, but we are loved immensely! We are surrounded by light beings who wish us to know that they are here to support us and to light our way out of whatever darkness we may have imagined and confined ourselves and others to. These light beings may be nature spirits who tend to the earth, angels, guardian spirits, friends and relatives who have transitioned, or universal light beings of good will. Jesus comes often. Until now we may have not felt or seen their presence with us, but that is all changing. Cameras are now capturing life just beyond the third dimension and the perception of our physical senses.

Know that you are not alone. Help in the form of wisdom and understanding, moral support and comfort is available to you. The world of spirit honors our free will and thus supports our sincere efforts and desires to deepen our self-awareness and love of self and other selves only when we ask.

In this section we are featuring four photos which reveal the presence of light beings in the form of orbs. Each photo has a brief introduction. My hope is that your heart will be lifted by the messages that these photos convey, and that you will know that you are loved!

The first two photographs were submitted by Ulla Gruhler (Germany).

The first was taken in the Hinterland Rain Forest, Australia, and captures nature spirits by a waterfall.

The second photo shows an angelic light being resting on a fence. This was taken at the Rotorua New Zealand Geyser following a Maori group performance.

In 2003, Wayne Rutledge was on an overseas security assignment when his team, which had gone ahead of him, was ambushed and killed. On the second anniversary of their death in 2005, Wayne lit a candle and prayed for them in a church. He was inspired to light another candle and pray for all those who had made this ultimate sacrifice. He told them that later that evening he would be working outside and invited them to come and visit. At midnight, Wayne started to take photos and a few orbs showed up. As he extended his invitation to all those for whom he had prayed earlier, more orbs appeared. He held out his arms and took this photograph with them.

This photo was taken in September 2005 during an evening labyrinth walk in New York, and captures the guardian spirits of the participants in the event.
